1. Introduction

In November 2015, The Southeast Asian Ministers of Education Organization (SEAMEO) will mark half-a-century of operations. As a regional inter-governmental organisation established among Southeast Asian countries, SEAMEO takes pride in its achievements over the years as Southeast Asian's leading organisation in promoting regional cooperation and human resource development in education, science and culture.

In response to the 2015 Southeast Asian community integration initiative, the development of partnerships and networking among schools and educational institutions across communities and countries is important to the aim of encouraging cooperation, the sharing of good practices, and exchanging teachers and students. The networking platform will also provide opportunities for teachers and students to understand cultural differences and leverage their necessary knowledge, skills and values to become global citizens and be more prepared for regional integration.

On the occasion of SEAMEO's 50th Year Anniversary, the SEAMEO Secretariat and the 21 SEAMEO Regional Centres and networks have jointly developed a networking platform of schools in Southeast Asian countries titled the SEAMEO 50x3 Schools' Network.

The network aims to serve as a "Network of Sharing and Development" between schools across Southeast Asia. The network consists of schools at three levels of education: primary, secondary, and vocational and technical schools.

The network aims to leverage the capacity of school leaders, teachers and students through capacity development programmes and other contributions from 21 SEAMEO Regional Centres, SEAMEO stakeholders, and partners. The network also provides opportunities for schools within the network to develop partnerships at the same, and across different educational levels.

For the year 2015, 50 primary schools, 50 secondary schools and 50 vocational and technical schools will be selected. At the end of 2015, it is expected that the SEAMEO 50x3 Schools' Network will be developed further and the number of participating school members expanded.

2. Definition of the SEAMEO 50x3 Schools' Network and its objectives

- The network is primarily a networking platform to promote and encourage partnerships and collaboration among schools in Southeast Asian countries, namely, Brunei Darussalam, Cambodia, Indonesia, Lao PDR, Malaysia, Myanmar, Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, Timor-Leste and Vietnam.
- The network consists of schools at three levels of education: primary, secondary, and vocational and technical schools.
- In the initial year of establishment in 2015, the network will select 50 primary schools, 50 secondary schools and 50 vocational and technical schools from 11 Southeast Asian nations.
- The network aims to leverage the capacity of school leaders, teachers and students in participating schools through specialised capacity development programmes and other resource contributions from 21 SEAMEO Regional Centres, SEAMEO stakeholders, and SEAMEO partners.
- The network aims to provide opportunities for participating schools to develop partnerships, share good practices, and exchange teachers and students within the network.

SEAMEO SONG ANGKLUNG CONTEST

Call for Entries

Submission Deadline:
18 September 2015

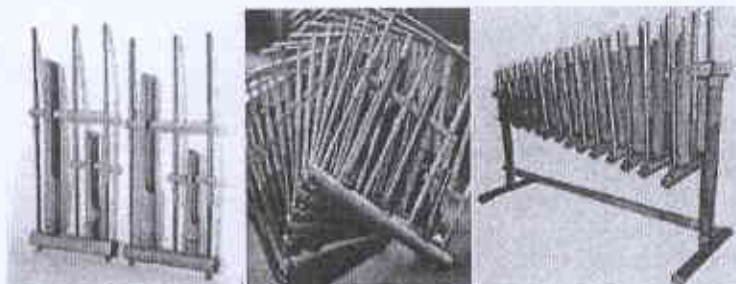

All primary and secondary schools are invited to join the contest to promote the Southeast Asian identity and appreciation of cultural heritage through a common and unique musical instrument in Southeast Asia, called “Angklung”

More information, visit www.seameo.org | Email: angklungcontest@seameo.org

1. Introduction

The angklung is a musical instrument made of two to four bamboo tubes suspended in a bamboo frame and bound with rattan cords. The tubes are carefully whittled (carved with small incisions) and cut by a master craftsman to produce certain notes when the bamboo frame is shaken or tapped. Each Angklung produces a single note or chord, so several players must collaborate in order to play melodies.<sup>(1)</sup>

It is one of the most popular and common musical instruments found across Southeast Asia. It originated in what is now the West Java and Banten provinces of Indonesia and it has been played for many centuries. In 2010, UNESCO officially recognized the Indonesian angklung as a “Masterpiece of [the] Oral and Intangible Heritage of Humanity”.<sup>(2)</sup>

Angklung

Angklung Ensembles

The angklung is a unique musical instrument in the Southeast Asian region and playing it in an orchestra setting requires skilled cooperation and coordination among musicians. Playing this instrument promotes values of teamwork, discipline, responsibility, mutual respect, concentration, the development of imagination and memory, as well as artistic and musical feelings.<sup>(1)</sup> Many schools in Southeast Asian countries have included the angklung as part of their musical curriculum and co-curricular activities in order to promote the aforementioned skills and to develop the values of students.

On the special occasion of the 50th Anniversary of SEAMEO, the SEAMEO Secretariat in collaboration with the SEAMEO Regional Open Learning Centre (SEAMEO SEAMOLEC), Indonesia have jointly organised a regional musical contest titled the "SEAMEO Song Angklung Contest".

2. Objectives of the Contest

The contest aims to:

- 1) Celebrate the SEAMEO 50th Anniversary by promoting the Southeast Asian identity and appreciation of cultural heritage through a common and unique musical instrument in Southeast Asia, called "Angklung"
- 2) Promote the necessary values and skills of Southeast Asian students such as cooperation, harmonisation, responsibility and creativity which will better equip them for 21st century challenges and ASEAN integration.
- 3) Enhance digital learning and the ICT skills of students by utilising mobile technology and learning how to produce a video.

3. All primary and secondary schools in Southeast Asia are invited to participate.

All primary and secondary schools in 11 Southeast Asian countries – namely Brunei Darussalam, Cambodia, Indonesia, Lao PDR, Malaysia, Myanmar, Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, Timor-Leste and Vietnam – are invited to participate in this contest.

4. Contest Categories

The school is free to choose the category in which they would like to participate. The contest consists of two categories:

- 1) A traditional angklung performance, and;

- 2) A digital angklung performance through the use of an android smart phone.

Schools/students need to download the digital angklung application for the android smart phone from Google play. The Angklung application example can be found by typing in the search term "Sundanese Instrument" in Google play.

You can see some examples of digital angklung ensembles by searching "Digital Angklung" from YouTube (<https://www.youtube.com/>)
